 A HOT DEBATE

Intimates That Kansas Progressives Are Hypocritical.

SENATOR COMES RIGHT BACK

Governor Stubbs, Realizing That Celebration of State's Semi-Centennial Is Tame Affair, Introduces Cabinet Member, Who at Once Proceeds to Mix Things Generally — President Taft Interested Spectator to Verbal Duel—Favors Commission Plan.

Hutchinson, Kan., Sept. 27.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher and Senator Bristow exchanged compliments in the presence of President Taft and 10,000 people at the Kansas semi-centennial celebration. The fight came without a word of warning. Not a quarter of the people even knew that Fisher was present.

Governor Stubbs called upon him unexpectedly for a speech, and before the insurgent executive knew what was happening Fisher had put his heel on the neck of "hypocritical and demagogical progressives," and had his audience in an uproar. Governor Stubbs was on his feet before Fisher had ceased talking and crowded into the first pause to introduce to the audience "their great senator whom everybody knows." Then Senator Bristow went after Mr. Fisher. He seized the opportunity to resent Mr. Fisher's attack upon "hypocritical progressives" as an impugning of the integrity of the citizenship of Kansas, and demanded that the people of other states concede the honor of the people of Kansas as Kansans admitted the honesty of others. He drove home the local note in his speech for all that was in him and his appeal caught the ears of the excited crowd.

The rumpus came on the end of a wearisome day. President Taft had just completed his reading of an address on the history of Kansas. Ten thousand people had gathered at the fair grounds to listen to the president, and the crowd had expected a rousing speech from Mr. Taft. They had gathered for some good Kansas spellingbinding and it was evident that they wearied a bit of the history of their state as the president read it to them. But the people hung on, and during the president's address it had evidently been borne upon the mind of Governor Stubbs that if he would place Secretary Fisher before them he could "wake things up." But it was palpably a surprise. The president, in speaking to his

Seeks to Divorce Wife When Case Pronounced Hopeless.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—Hopelessly ill from consumption, Nicholas Mayte, a young German, has not expressed a desire similar to that of the Shakeress of Kissimmee, Fla., to "pass out of the body," but in order that his wife may not have to bear the burden of his misfortune, he has filed suit for divorce.

"I am not longer able to work," young Mayte said. "I do not feel that it is right to load her down with the care of an incurably sick man. I was taken ill with tuberculosis six months ago, and the best I can do now is to set her free."

Mayte has rented himself a small room, where he will probably die. His wife is heartbroken over the action taken, but gets some consolation from the fact that they agreed to be married if he should recover from the disease.

Christian Citizenship Convention Listens to Judge Blair.

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—Judge A. Z. Blair of Portsmouth and Rev. Dr. J. A. Henderson of Dayton were speakers at the closing session of the Ohio Christian citizenship convention. The former spoke on "The Necessity of an Awakened Public Conscience" and the latter concerning "Safeguarding in Constitutional Law the Moral Interests of the State." According to Judge Blair it was his lid-ripping inquiry in Adams county that started the investigation into legislative corruption and brought about the inquiry into corrupt elections to the United States senate. He reiterated the statement that many southern Ohio counties are as bad as Adams, a fact that he attributed in part to the lack of leg-

Throne Room In the Vatican,
 Where Pope Receives Visitors

Photograph by American Press Association, 1911.

FEW travelers go to Rome without seeing the outside of the Vatican, the magnificent palace that for hundreds of years has been the residence of the head of the Roman Catholic church. The Vatican stands on ground that was once occupied as the gardens of the Emperor Nero. Pope Symmachus first built a residence there in the early years of the sixth century. Nicholas V. (1447-55) began a systematic policy of improving the Vatican, which has been followed by his successors. The palace is now a series of buildings covering nearly fourteen acres and containing about 1,100 rooms. The throne room, pictured above, is where the pontiff holds formal audiences, and this room has in past years been seen by notable persons from all parts of the world.

French Naval Authorities Continue to Guess at Cause of Explosion Which Destroyed Battleship Liberte In Harbor of Toulon—Purser's Story Indicates Spontaneous Combustion In Powder Magazines—Paris Paper Hints at Dark Political Plot

Paris, Sept. 27.—That the explosion which wrecked the warship Liberte was caused by a fire originating in the paint and oil shop and spreading to the powder magazines before the crew could get the flooding apparatus into working order, is the latest version of the disaster in Toulon harbor. The inquest, now in progress, is trying to establish whether fire caused the explosion or spontaneous deflagration of "B" powder caused the fire which spread.

The sailor who was discovered alive in the turret has been taken out. He said that he had been imprisoned with 10 dead. Five others were rescued. The imprisoned men were helpless with fear and in the darkness were stunned and fainting from the poisonous fumes that hovered about the wreck of the Liberte. When the rescuers reached them they could neither stand nor see and could do little but moan. One said to a doctor at the hospital later that the world had fallen in on them.

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—The recent cloudburst in the Tuscarawas valley was disastrous in its effect upon the Ohio canal at points between Coshocton and Canal Fulton. An investigation by Chief Engineer J. I. Three large culverts were washed out and completely destroyed.

Kutztown, Pa., Sept. 27.—Governor Harmon of Ohio delivered an address this afternoon at a big meeting of farmers at the Bucks county fair. By so doing he invaded Governor Woodrow Wilson's territory, this congressional district having already declared for the New Jersey executive as its choice for the Democratic presidential nomination. One of the officers of the fair association was an officeholder under President Grover Cleveland when Governor Harmon was a member of the cabinet, and it was on his recommendation that Ohio's chief executive was invited to speak.

Postmaster General Delivers Pouch By Aeroplane.

SAYS AIR ROUTES ALL RIGHT

Thinks Vehicles Open to Improvement Before They Come Into General Use as Letter Carriers, but Sees Where They Could Be Used to Advantage in Hopping Rivers in Rough Western Country—Machine Is Guided by Captain Beck.

New York, Sept. 27.—Postmaster General Hitchcock was the stellar attraction at the Nassau boulevard aviation meet when he flew with Captain Beck to Mineola, L. I., and delivered a mail pouch to the postmaster at that village.

Lieutenant Milling, flying a Burgess-Wright biplane and carrying two private soldiers of Company L, Twenty-ninth Infantry, as passengers, stayed in the air 1 hour, 54 minutes and 42 3-5 seconds continuously, thereby breaking the world's record for carrying two passengers plus a pilot by 16 minutes 2 3-5 seconds.

"The Hon. Frank H. Hitchcock, postmaster general of the whole United States," the megaphone man began to yell, "will now fly to Mineola with Captain Beck to deliver the mail. Postmaster General Hitchcock will carry the mailbag on his knees and drop the bag at Mineola into a circle in which will be the postmaster of Mineola. Ladies and gentlemen, Postmaster General Hitchcock." (Much applause.)

Mr. Hitchcock was not around to hear all this, and so didn't lift his gray cap in acknowledgment. He was far out in the field with Attorney General Wickersham and Captain Beck. At the very last moment Mrs. Timothy Woodruff came along with 75 letters and cards which she had held back until then so that this mail could be carried by Mr. Hitchcock, and not in a second bag of mail to be delivered in a monoplane by Ovington. Mrs. Woodruff's package of mail was placed in a pouch and Captain Beck and the postmaster general hiked off in a northerly direction for the high spots.

Ovington Also Carries Mail. The Curtiss circled three-quarters of the field and then climbed rapidly until it was 300 or 400 feet above the south end of the track. Ovington, who had also got under way with a second bag of mail in his No. 13 Queen monoplane, shot up into the

AN ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE TALE

LAD RAN AWAY

OF CRUEL TREATMENT TOLD BY BOY

May Result in Official Investigation

PROMINENT PEOPLE INVOLVED

Men to Whom Story Was Told Return Boy to Home From Which He Fleed

A story of genuine human interest and so shocking as to be almost unbelievable, has just come to light from Marion township, where according to the story a wealthy farmer's wife has been grossly mistreating an orphan lad for four years, and which may cause the woman to be brought into court and answer to the juvenile judge for her conduct.

The story comes from two well known citizens of the Bloomingburg vicinity, who were driving down the Columbus pike a day or two ago, when they met a boy some sixteen years of age who asked if the two men could tell him the way to Columbus. After informing him that he was on the right road, the men commenced quizzing the lad, thinking he was escaping from the authorities in this city.

Under the questions put to him the boy became confused and told two or three different stories, and was informed that he must get in the rig and accompany them to this city, where he would be turned over to the officers here. When told this, the boy broke down and wept, saying that he was not escaping from the officers, but would tell them all if they would promise not to take him back.

However, the men would make no promise and prevailed upon the boy to tell them his story. After informing the two men that he was running away from the home of a prominent farmer, the boy dramatically pulled out a pocket knife, and said that he would rather cut his own throat than return to the place to undergo the treatment which had been accorded him for four long years.

He then told how the farmer's wife had beaten and abused him; how he was compelled to work continually, and had been kept at home so closely that he did not know some of the closest neighbors; how she had refused to let him attend school and that he had never gotten out of the first reader; would bring him to this city only once each year, and how he had worked and been mistreated for four long years, since he had been removed from the Children's home from which he was taken.

The lad said that he was on his way to Columbus to try and find the home of his sister, whom he claims lives there. He was of exceptionally good appearance, and told the two men how he was so sore from a recent beating he claimed had been administered by the woman, and said that upon more than one occasion he had been beaten with a strap until the blood ran from his wounds. This story of cruelty and brutality caused the men to take the lad to the home of the woman whom the lad had accused of such brutal treatment, and after finding the woman, told her that the beatings must cease, or the matter would be taken up and the law brought to bear upon the case.

The woman, who is well known, did not deny that she had beaten and mistreated the lad, and gave some trivial excuse for her actions. The lad was left in charge of the man and his wife again, and the two men who found him on the pike drove away.

The boy's story of mistreatment will probably reach the ears of the proper officials, and a public judicial investigation will result.

Further
Developments In Sewer Troubles

A number of citizens met Tuesday night to discuss plans for eliminating the sewer troubles caused by stoppage of the Sharp sewer, but no definite action was taken, other than to appoint a committee to go into the proposition thoroughly and see what can be accomplished toward getting rid of the troubles.

Permission was secured from Service Director Anders to tap the new Market street sewer at a point near the Hinde street intersection, and connect it with the Sharp private sewer at a point in the alley near Hinde street.

This will afford drainage for the Presbyterian church, and for a large number of those property holders who have taps on the Sharp sewer.

Further details will be worked out within the next day or two, it is said, and if all agree to pay for tapping the new sewer on Market street, the Sharp sewer may be turned into the Market street sewer.

Correction

In Tuesday evening's daily was an article on a sewerage stoppage which caused trouble in the basement of the Presbyterian.

The statement was a mistake, as the sewer is running in perfect working order.

The water seeped into the church basement from a sewer being dug in front of the church and not from the church sewer. The water has now entirely disappeared.

FAMILY "HEIRLOOM" CAUSES FINE

STRICT LAW

SABINA MAN WAS SOAKED $50.00

A deputy game warden visited Sabina and vicinity a few days ago, and as a result there are a few less seines and some men are out $50 and costs for having seines in their possession. The story is given by the Sabina Tribune as follows:

"A fish and game warden was down from Columbus several days last week, looking up a number of parties who were thought to have seines in violation of law. He obtained search warrants from the court of Mayor Barnes, and in company with Marshal Williams made the rounds of this vicinity. At the home of E. K. Polk, north of town, a 60-foot seine was found, and a 45-foot seine at the home of Charles Stowe, beyond Memphis. Search in other places was unsuccessful, though at one farm there were indications of a seine having been disposed of by the fire route, melted lead, supposed to be from the sinkers, being found in the ashes. Under the Code the having in possession of a seine is an offense punishable by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $200. A charge was filed against Mr. Polk on Saturday, to which he appeared and entered a plea of guilty, and was fined $50 and costs. Mr. Polk claims that the seine was one that belonged in the family for more than 20 years, and that he had not used it, but under the law the offense is completed when the seine is found in any person's possession. Mr. Stowe appeared on Monday, entered a plea of guilty, and was fined $50 and the costs.

George Carrier
Couldn't Carrier

George Carrier, straw bailer, former cement worker of Columbus, who came to this city "because there was no booze" and has been in the employ of Thomas McKitterick for some time, was placed under arrest Sunday night because he had such a load of booze that he could not carry it without staggering under the weight.

Carrier was locked up and kept in jail until Tuesday evening, when he called in his former employer who evidently did not want to "let George do it," or rather because George was willing, but hadn't the price.

George regretted falling from the water wagon, but this did not help his case. It is claimed that his breath was laden with the fumes of cheap whiskey, hence the report that he, too, had partaken of "dry-town whiskey" (lemon extract and cider) was false.

Frankfort Will Vote
Third Bond Election

The Board of Education of Frankfort Tuesday decided that the best way out of the proposition confronting that village regarding the school building, which was recently ordered repaired so extensively that it would cost almost as much as a new building, decided to hold another election to consider the issuance of $25,000 in bonds for the purpose of purchasing a site and erecting a suitable building.

In addition to erecting the building, the board wishes to purchase five acres of ground to be utilized for all time to come for school purposes.

This is the third election which has been called, and this time the date has been set for October 10th. The two previous elections resulted in a defeat of the bond issue, but since the state inspector has condemned the structure as unfit for service the way it stands, the citizens of Frankfort can hardly afford to turn down the bond issue again.

UP STAIRS

Board of Health
To Convene
In Cincinnati

The thirty-first conference of the Ohio State Board of Health, with representatives of local boards of health, will be held in Cincinnati, October the 19th and 20th, 1911, at the Assembly room of the Hotel Sinton on Fourth street.

Fayette is among the 44 counties to be represented.

There is a mandatory provision that each board of health must send a delegate when requested to do so. The official notice of the meeting is sent to each health officer and the clerk of each township and the health officer or clerk receiving the announcement should at once bring the matter to the attention of his board of health so that a delegate can be selected and provided with a certificate.

Some difficulty has been encountered in the past in the desire of the board of health to send more than one delegate.

The State Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Officers has ruled that each board of health is entitled to one delegate and in addition should send its health officer and pay his expenses.

Where two representatives are sent each must be provided with a certificate of delegation.

The topics scheduled for discussion are those which most affect the vital interests of the community and that come within the jurisdiction of the board of health.

C. A. & C. Yards Undergoing Repairs

Since the new freight depot platform has been completed in the local yards of the C. A. & C. railroad, the yards south of the depot which have so long been a mud hole throughout a great part of the year, causing the sidewalk, what little there is, to become almost impassable, will be filled to a depth of eight or ten inches with a good grade of gravel.

This will necessitate the raising of one or more tracks, and when the work is completed within the next few weeks the yards will hardly resemble the former sloppy, disagreeable and unhealthy mess, and teams may drive into the yards with some degree of assurance that the wagons will not mire down and stick fast.

B. & O. Operators May Go On Strike

Reports from Columbus Newspapers indicate a general strike on the B. & O. within a short time unless arbitration is used to settle the difficulty. The operators as a union, have demanded an increase in salary, which was refused, and according to the reports a vote was taken which, when canvassed, may mean a general strike, effecting the local office along with the rest.

It is believed that the management rather than allow the operators to walk out, will quickly accede to the demands.

Montaville Flowers The Second Attraction

The second number of the Washington Lecture Course is Montaville Flowers, who will be here on November 2, 1911. Every one who enjoys a good speaker should avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Montaville Flowers.

Not only is Mr. Flowers great from the standpoint of the art of interpretation, but he is an orator capable of delivering a great lecture as well. In the last presidential campaign under the auspices of the National Republican Committee he filled many of the most important dates for political addresses throughout Illinois and from President Taft's special train spoke to thirty thousand people at South Bend, Indiana.

Beginning as a boy on the farm, in his teens a teacher in the common schools, at the age of twenty-four he held diplomas from the Ohio Northern University and the Cincinnati College of Music and was superintendent of the Norwood schools. He later taught in the Cincinnati college of Law and in the Cincinnati College of Music, and he organized and for three years managed the University extension work of Cincinnati University.

Gen. Lew Wallace, the author of "Ben Hur" attended the rendition of his famous book as given one night by Montaville Flowers in the author's home city, Crawfordsville, Ind. At the close Gen. Wallace put his arms about Flowers and said: "This is by far the best treatment my book has ever had." The Cincinnati Enquirer has this to say about the rendition of this play in that city: "Though a resident of this city, and in his fiftieth appearance here in ten years, to the largest audience in the history of the Y. M. C. A. Star Course, nearly 4000 people, Montaville Flowers was the extraordinary attraction at Music Hall last night. He presented the monologue of "Ben Hur" in a powerful enactment—full of dramatic force and intensity of delivery. In the chariot race scene he reached a climax which is seldom witnessed, and which was warmly greeted by the applause of the audience."

Other attractions in his repertoire are "A Christmas Carol," "Less Miserables," "The Battle of Waterloo," "The Merchant of Venice," "Hamlet" and "The Little Minister". It has been truly said of this repertoire that each number is wrought out like work of Henry Irving with great fidelity to the genius of the author, the atmosphere of the composition, and the details of the characters in it.

The Hawaiian Language.

The language of Hawaii is very simple. To one who hears it for the first time comes the conviction that the aborigines expressed their sentiments in primitive vowel sounds, to which some consonants have been added. Each vowel is sounded as in Latin, and the words are easily pronounced by one who is patient and wishes to speak distinctly. The pronunciation will be all the better if the speaker will draw out, almost drawl, the vowel sounds, for which reason the language is well suited to the doleful Hawaiian wail. Say Hoo-noo-luu-luu and let the word sing itself.—Rosary Magazine.

"A horse is man's truest friend," said the lover of animals.

"He's more like a relation than a friend," replied Farmer Cornstossel.

"He makes me think of my boy Josh; allus ready to eat an' liable to kick if you put him to work."—Washington Star.

Example.

We scatter seeds with careless hand
And dream we ne'er shall see them more.
But for a thousand years
Their fruit appears.
In weeds that mar the land
Or healthful store.

The deeds we do, the words we say,
Into still air they seem to fleet.
We count them never past,
But they shall last—
In the dread judgment they
And we shall meet.

I charge thee by the years gone by,
For the love's sake of brethren dear,
Keep thou the one true way,
In work and play,
Lest in that world their cry
Of woe thou hear.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Advantages of Walking.

All authorities agree that there is no exercise more beneficial both to health and beauty than correct walking—not a mere slovenly, slouching walk, but one in which the body is held erect and the head tilted slightly backward. In a short space of time a good effect will be produced; the back will become flat and straight and the walk more graceful and "springy" without conscious effort. A rule should be made to take from half an hour to an hour's walking exercise every day. Begin to walk rather more slowly than the pace you intend afterward to keep and take a regular and steady step, remembering what has already been said about the position of the body. You will be surprised how gently and quickly your figure as well as your complexion will improve.

NINETY-NINTH OHIO ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF METHODIST CHURCH

This conference was organized from the western conference, 99 years ago, and next September it will celebrate its centennial anniversary.

A year ago at the session of the conference in Logan, a committee consisting of Dr. Herbert Scott, Dr. J. C. Arbuckle and Dr. Isaac F. King was appointed by Bishop Moore to arrange for the place of meeting and prepare a program for next year's centennial celebration. The committee has been at work on the program and it will be announced in due time. First Church, Columbus, will ask that next year's conference be held there and it is the general understanding that the request will be granted. Grace church, of this city, and one or two other congregations had planned to ask for centennial conference, it is said, but all may step aside and give First church, Columbus, the right of way.

At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning the ninety-ninth Ohio annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church convened in the auditorium of the First church of Newark, and all Methodist ministers of the country are in attendance. This conference will remain in session until Monday morning, and Bishop Earl Cranston will preside. The Ohio conference is, perhaps, the most important religious body within the confines of the state. It has a membership of 250 ministers, and represents a total church membership of $2,000. There are, all told, 618 churches, and the church property is valued at $3,175,350. The 175 parsonages are valued at $429,895. There are 619 Sunday schools, 8346 officers and teachers, and 72,651 pupils. The senior and junior Epworth Leagues of the Ohio conference have a membership of more than 15,000.

OUR GOOD ROADS.

What should Fayette county do about the roads within her borders?

Many of the main pikes and roads of the county, the excellent character of which for years and years after they were constructed made the county famous throughout this section of the country are now more than badly in need of repairs—they are worn out and will have to be entirely rebuilt to give the satisfactory result which, in this era of "good roads" agitation, is universally demanded.

The proper solution of the question, which is doubly perplexing just now, owing to the intricacies of the taxation laws is of grave concern, not only to the residents of the rural districts, but also to the residents of the city districts because just now the pikes and roads are very generally traveled by the urban population.

Governor Hanly, speaking in Missouri said in effect that the users of the highways who object to a substantial good roads movement are each year they adhere to their objections, placing a voluntary tax upon themselves, which turned into revenue would support the state government, the county government and pay the cost of the school system.

In giving utterance to that forceful illustration Governor Hanly was but restating an old proposition and that is that it is so much more difficult to properly estimate, understand and appreciate the money one does not make than it is the money one makes.

If every resident of Fayette county who lives on or is compelled to travel over a bad road will stop to consider his own particular case he can see at once that Governor Hanly's statement was not one bit too strong.

Any resident of a bad roads neighborhood knows that in the course of the year the road (at times almost impassable) has cost him more than the per cent. of taxes necessary for good roads would amount to, of the actual value of his corn, his wheat, his hogs, of all the products of his farm. And whether he wants to sell his land or not he knows that a good road will greatly increase its use to him and its market value alike. There is in addition the purchasing power in a good road, of good schools and churches and a greater enjoyment of life on the farm.

Bad roads in addition to causing inconvenience and expense to those who are compelled to use it, give a community a bad reputation which results in a marked depreciation of all property in the community.

Fayette county roads and pikes are not now at the impassable state, but they threaten to soon arrive at that state unless something substantial is done to stop the present disintegration process now going on faster and faster each year.

Nearly every one is in favor of "good roads", but the all important question is how to get them.

The officials cannot re-build our great pikes without money and lots of it, and the question of raising the necessary funds is one which causes the fear of inability to accomplish much of good.

The officials are handicapped by the limitations of the new taxation law which makes the problem of raising any considerable amount of money, especially during the next few years, an exceedingly difficult one.

The problem is one which, in all probability the new Board of County Commissioners will have to deal with and every advocate of a better order of things should assist instead of retarding a movement for good roads.

It is understood that the new Board is exceedingly favorable to such a movement, realizes that some radical steps must be taken soon and is seriously contemplating going into the matter in earnest.

It is to be hoped that something can be and will be done which will bring the county back to her former good reputation and afford the people the convenience and necessity desired on all hands.

Heaven Is Not a Palace In the Sky; It Is a Thing of the Spirit

By Rev. L. J. EVERS of New York

HEAVEN is not a place. It is a thing of the spirit. HEAVEN IS ANYWHERE AND EVERYWHERE. IT IS NOT A PALACE IN THE SKY, AS THE OLD LITERAL THEOLOGIANS WOULD HAVE US BELIEVE. IT IS A STATE OF MIND.

Every bit of the gorgeous Biblical description of heaven is simply intended to convey an impression of its BEAUTY in terms that might be understood by the AVERAGE oriental mind, for which the Bible was first written.

If I were discussing music with a great composer I might use the most highly technical language to describe its beauty. But if I were talking to a humble, half taught violin player I should have to speak very differently, using terms with which he was familiar. So in bringing the conception of heaven close to the ordinary man one must use words and phrases and descriptions which he will understand and which he can visualize for himself.

POETRY
FOR TODAY

THEN AND NOW.

Come seventeen years it was, I think (I'll never forget the day).

I took a basket to the store
And when the clerk had looked me o'er
Unto him I did say:

"Give me four bits worth of lard, and a quarter's worth of ham,

And ten cents worth of that husky
cheese

That comes from Rotterdam,
And five cents worth of onions,
And a nickel's worth of eggs—"

Well, say, you'd a-thought that
blame fool clerk

Would laugh himself off his legs.

"Now, how do you think," says he to me, with a most offensive air,

"You're goin' to carry all that stuff
In that little basket there?"

Yesterday I went to the store with a basket as of yore,

The same old size, the same old kind
And when the clerk his ear inclined
I named my wishes 'o'er:

"Give me four bits worth of lard, and a quarter's worth of ham,
cheese

That comes from Rotterdam

And five cents worth of onions,

And a nickel's worth of eggs—"

Well, say, you'd a-thought that
blame fool clerk

Had gone on a laughin' jag.

"Chuck the basket," says he, "you can carry it all

In this here paper bag."

Five Men Removed

forre, who was the pursuer of the Liberte, confirms the theory of deflagration. He was asleep in his cabin and was awakened by a rumbling sound 20 minutes before the final explosion. He dressed hurriedly and left his cabin. The passageway was thick with smoke characteristic of "B" powder, and thinking that the ship had been abandoned he returned to his cabin and jumped overboard through a port hole as the smoke was too thick for him to go through the passageway. As he was swimming away he heard the fire bugle call and swam back to the vessel, taking charge of his division of the fire-fighters until the final explosion threw him overboard. He received a wound in the head and when this was dressed ashore he returned to the wreck of the Liberte to help save the wounded.

The Patrie prints extracts from all telegrams regarding the Liberte disaster, and comments tending to prove that the disaster was due to incendiarism on the part of the revolutionary anti-militarists, who recently threatened the minister of marine at Brest upon the occasion of the launching of the battleship Jean Bart.

The paper says that the fire started in the coal bunkers in four places at the same time, and that as fast as the fires were extinguished they were started in other places. The coal bunkers were open to all of the crew, whereas the magazines were closely guarded.

same acre of sky occupied by Captain Beck and Mr. Hitchcock and shot eastward as a trackliner for Captain Beck's biplane. The army man's machine was trailing smoke behind it, but not a cop tried to make an arrest.

The field could see the two machines almost all the time during the cross-country flight. The way the biplane with a passenger pegged along just behind the monoplane with only a pilot aboard was a caution. Over a big white circle painted on the Mineola real estate Ovington from his monoplane and the postmaster general from Captain Beck's machine plumped down to Mineola the two pouches, and hit within the circle in each case.

"Yes, air routes are all right for practical mail carrying," said Mr. Hitchcock. "I mean," he smiled, "the air is all right, but the vehicles must continue toward perfection. But even with the aeroplane as it is now it would be very useful to us, particularly in some parts of the country. Take along the Colorado river in the canon district of Yuma, for instance, or in parts of Alaska. Along the Colorado there are places where detours of 50 miles out of the way are made in mail routes to get to a bridge. An aeroplane could hop right across the river."

DON'T PULL OUT
THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

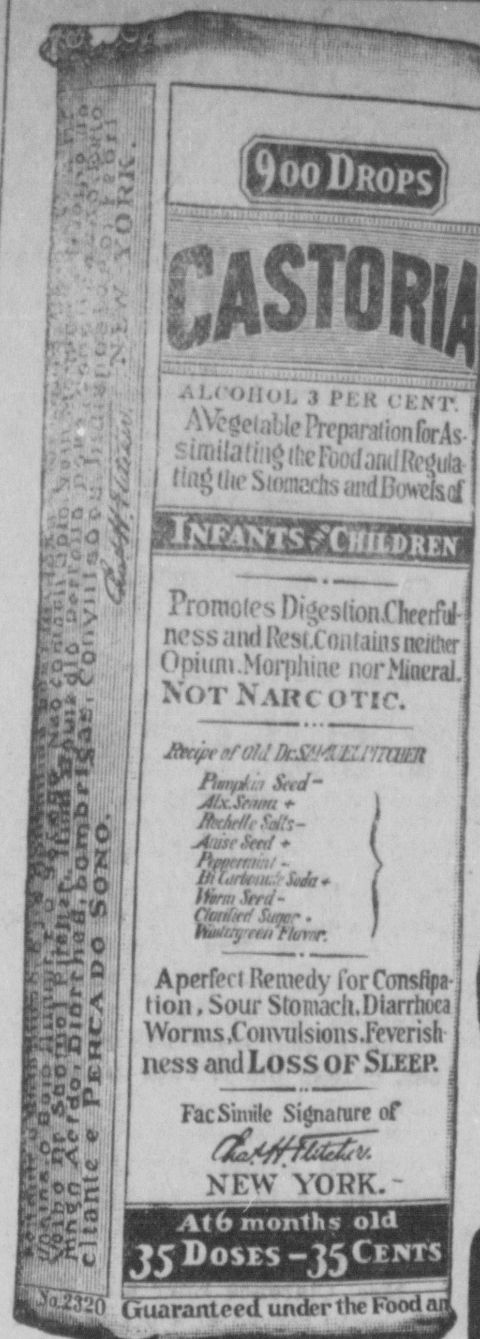

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, Brown's Drug Store.

Q.—For a long time I have desired to know more about the deep and secret things of God, but I am somewhat discouraged when I read in my Bible that, "The secret things belong to God" (Deuteronomy xxix, 29). Does this mean that we cannot find out anything about God's secrets?

Answer.—From the beginning God's Great Plan was a secret. He spoke in times past through the Prophets in "dark sayings and parables," because it was not His due time for man to understand. Jesus Christ was the first to understand God's Plan. In Revelation we have a beautiful picture of the making known of His Plan to His Beloved Son. The "Book" there mentioned represents the Divine Plan, kept secret from all. None was found worthy to be intrusted with the opening and execution of the Divine Plan, until Jesus, described there as "The Lion of the Tribe of Judah," by His faithfulness unto death, proved His worthiness. God had revealed to Him, prior thereto, much of His Plan, but now the glorified Christ is entrusted with the whole thereof. Since Pentecost those who have fully consecrated themselves to the Lord have been given a measure of ability to understand some of the deep things of God. The Apostle says, "The mystery has been hid from Ages and generations, but is now made known unto the saints" (Colossians i, 26). It is yet a mystery to the world, only the saintly class, the fully consecrated Christians, having an understanding of the secret things. If then we would have an understanding of the deeper things of God, we must approach Him in His appointed way through Christ Jesus, having faith in His blood shed for us; and then, fully consecrating our lives to Him, apply our minds and hearts to the study and understanding of His Word, which is written for the man of God (Romans xv, 4; II Timothy iii, 16, 17).

To Form Copper Trust

American Interests Have Scheme to Beat Anti-Trust Laws.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 27.—A Calumet copper man of standing, who will not allow his name to be used, speaking regarding the possibility of combining the copper interests of the country, or a portion of them, under an English operating and holding corporation, with headquarters in London, in order to evade possible legal complications and overcome the possibility of government interference under what he defines as obsolete anti-trust legislation, says it is a fact that such action is being seriously considered.

"We would not sell out to the English corporation," he says, "but merely go into and be operated through the English corporation." A party of prominent copper men are now touring the country, including a representative of the Rothschilds, and these men are holding a conference in Chicago today to consider the proposition, according to the informant.

JOY IN LIFE IS EASILY RESTORED

Despite Evil Results of Rush and Bustle Energy Can Be Brought Back.

The rush and hustle of American life is a constant strain on both mind and body. Gradually the human machine wears out under this unnatural strain and nervous debility results. Statistics show that half the people of the United States are in a run-down, nervous condition.

A man or woman in this condition can get little happiness or success out of life. They feel tired all the time, have no energy or ambition and are gloomy, timid and despondent. They do not sleep well or eat well or feel well and life instead of being a pleasure seems more like a burden.

Are you one of these half sick, listless, nervous people? If you are you know that there is a tonic now being sold that has brought back the old energy and pleasure in life to thousands who have tried it. The name of the tonic is Tona Vita. It is being introduced in this country by a number of physicians. It has been pronounced the greatest medicine ever before sold to the public. In each city there is an agent for Tona Vita who will refund the purchase price if the tonic fails to give you complete and entire satisfaction. Let Tona Vita build you up and bring back your strength and vitality. You will be astonished how quickly it acts. The very first dose will convince you what a great medicine it is.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative is used as an assistant to Tona Vita in cases of chronic constipation. It is a family medicine pleasant to the taste, containing the splendid laxative qualities of rhubarb. Ask your physician about rhubarb and see if he does not tell you it is the best possible laxative for children.

Brown's Drug store have the agency for these two great medicines in Washington Court House, O.

Frothingham and Foss Named.

Higgen, had no difficulty in winning the Democratic nomination for governor.

Never Gave It Thought

Gary and Morgan Deny Steel Trust at Dissolution Point.

New York, Sept. 27.—After a meeting of officers of the United States Steel corporation in the library of J. P. Morgan, a statement signed by Mr. Morgan and Elbert H. Gary, as a committee of directors, was made public.

The statement announced that the steel corporation is not operated in violation of the federal anti-trust laws and that, in view of recent rumors, it is considered a duty the directors owe the stockholders, employees and the general public, to enter an emphatic denial that they are contemplating the dissolution or disintegration of the corporation, either voluntarily or at the demand of the government.

"For years I suffered from weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures so I began taking them and sure enough I had as good results as any I heard about. My backache left me and to one of my business, expressman, that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Fighting Off Lockjaw.

The six cardinal points in the treatment of every blank cartridge wound of any kind, says an eminent authority, are the following:

First.—Freely incise every wound.

Second.—Carefully and thoroughly remove from the wound every particle of foreign matter.

Third.—Cauterize the wound with a 25 per cent solution of carbolic acid.

Fourth.—Apply a loose, wet, boric acid pack.

Fifth.—Inject subcutaneously anti-tetanic serum.

Sixth.—In no case should the wound be closed. It should be allowed to heal by granulation from the bottom up. The dressing and packing should be removed every day.

In a family having a member possessing ordinary common sense and proper coolness, he adds, all except No. 5 of these directions can easily and safely be carried out without the aid of a physician. It is the early immediate treatment that is essential, so every second is precious. Of course the physician will be called at the earliest possible moment, and he will apply the serum treatment. The symptoms of tetanus, or lockjaw, start from five to fifteen days from the time of the wound.

FRIENDLY STRUGGLE IS NOW

NEAR THE END

THREE MORE DAYS REMAIN

Until the Final Count--Impossible to Pick Victor

UNTIL THE VOTES ARE COUNTED

A Single Vote May Decide Who Is Winner of the Grand Prize.

The end of the contest is in sight. The statement that the contest would be the greatest ever inaugurated by any newspaper in this section of Ohio, has been vindicated.

The prizes, which have impelled the candidates to put forth such strenuous efforts to secure ballots, have been found to be even more valuable and appropriate than represented to be. The contest has aroused intense interest, not only among the candidates, but among all the people of Fayette county. Thus far the struggle, while it has been keen, has not been marred by any trace of ill feeling and now that the finish is near, the contestants are making preparations for the final strenuous competition that is certain to mark the last few days of voting to mark some good nature that has characterized the voting from the start.

Conjecture is rife as to who will be the winner of the splendid prize, but in all probability big surprises are in store for those who think they are the fortunate ones.

The daily balloting is by no means a guide to the activity of the contestants as many are busy, accumulating votes which they will hold until a few hours before the close.

Each succeeding day becomes more valuable to the hustling candidate. From now on until the final vote is made unceasing effort is necessary. All realize the importance of working hard in order to retain their present position or make needed gains. A single vote may decide the winner of the grand prize when the struggle is ended.

The manner of closing will be explained Thursday and Friday night. All candidates are requested to turn in all subscriptions early and not wait until the last minute.

ABOUT THE FINISH.
The contest will close Saturday, Sept. 30, at 8 p. m. in Memorial hall. At 7 p. m. the ballot box will be taken from the Register-Herald office to Memorial Hall, where subscriptions will be received and votes issued until the closing hour.

It must be distinctly understood however, by candidates, and their friends that the votes for subscriptions must be issued and PLACED IN BALLOT BOX BEFORE 8 P. M., otherwise they will not be counted. This rule will be strictly enforced.

that if the player piano is won in district No. 1, the upright piano must be awarded to the opposite district, or vice versa. In this way one of the grand prizes will be won in Washington and one outside of Washington. After the grand prizes have been awarded, the names of the winners will be stricken from the list and the 1st prize. The same plan will be used holders of the first places will then be given the prizes known as District in awarding the District 2d prizes.

Remember, three prizes will be given to each district, and each and every candidate will receive a square deal. One district will not have the advantage over another. District No. 1 will receive a grand prize and two district prizes. District No. 2 will also receive a grand prize and two district prizes.

Married Life.
Second Year

HELEN KNOCKED SOFTLY on the door of Mrs. Stevens's room. There was no answer, and she knocked again. She was just turning away, thinking that perhaps after all she was down at the beach, when the door opened. Mrs. Stevens was in a kimono and showed every evidence of having been asleep.

"Oh, I'm so sorry I woke you! I should have known."

"I'm glad you did," laughed Mrs. Stevens, cordially. "I always take a little nap after luncheon, but I never want to sleep long. It only makes me stupid for the rest of the day. Wait till I dress and we will go down to the beach."

Helen sank on a couch and looked up at Mrs. Stevens with troubled eyes.

"It's something I want to ask you—something I want you to help me in. And yet"—with an uncertain little laugh, as she pulled nervously at the tassel of her parasol—"it seems so foolish—I hardly know how to tell you."

Mrs. Stevens, instantly interested, surmising some domestic trouble, drew up a chair beside her.

"Why, you know, dear," encouragingly, "if there's anything I can do—"

"But this is so foolish. It's about that horseback ride Sunday. You know your husband asked if I could ride and Warren answered 'Oh, yes, Helen's quite a horsewoman.' Don't you remember?"

Mrs. Stevens nodded.

"Well—I'm not! I've never been on a horse in my life but once—and then I was terrified. But long ago before we were married I gave Warren to understand that I could ride—and I've had to keep up that pretense ever since. Of course, it must seem absurd that I haven't told him the truth, but the way it all happened—somehow I never could! He used to be so strenuously athletic. He skated and rowed and was an expert tennis and golf player—and I could do none of these things. Oh, I used to feel so humiliated!"

Helen hesitated a moment and then went on, her eyes on the figure in the rug she was tracing with her parasol.

"And one day, he said half teasingly, half in earnest: 'What a little house kitten you are! There not a single outdoor thing you can do.' I happened to be turning the leaves of a magazine—and there was a picture of a woman on horseback. Oh, I don't know what possessed me but I said: 'Oh, yes, I can ride! I used to ride a great deal and I really can ride very well.' And he answered: 'Good! That's fine. There's no better exercise.' Of course, that was before we were even engaged. He mentioned it several times afterwards, but I never had the courage to tell him the truth."

Here Helen stooped over to pick up the parasol that had slipped from her nervous fingers, and went on more hurriedly:

"We've never been where they've had saddle horses, so it really hasn't mattered until last night—when you suggested that we will hire horses from the stable here and go riding Sunday morning. I tried to get out of it by saying I had no habit, and you said you had two and would drive in tomorrow and bring down both. And when I protested at that, you said all I would need was a skirt, and they had those at the stable. So I couldn't get out of it. And Warren is so eager to go. He says he hasn't ridden for years, and it will do him more good than anything. And that if we can make a reasonable arrangement by the week, we'll both ride every morning before he goes into town. Now what shall I do? It seems to me I can't tell him after all these years."

Mrs. Stevens laughed comfortingly.

DUPED.

By J. Brooke Alder.

I had to read all August for some stupid "exam," and, as somebody said that one could enjoy oneself notwithstanding if one went to a little French bathing place at the other end of a diligence drive from Dieppe, I took the steamer for that favorable spot.

Certainly the fellow who sent me there knew what he was talking about, for anything more fascinating than my existence in that happy valley beside the sea it would be difficult to imagine.

The end came with the arrival, some days later by the afternoon diligence, of a young lady, arrayed in all that is loveliest in Parisian travelling costumes. I happened to be at the hotel door as the old four-horse vehicle came to a standstill and my charmer alighted, followed by a stout old lady carrying a fat dog. From that moment I knew that my fate was sealed.

When the old lady came down to the table d-hôte dinner, I was disgusted to find that her seat was quite out of my range. It was no use to pass the pearls—the inevitable desert in Normandy—with one's sweetest smile, if both were to be intercepted half way by a fat banker from Rouen.

But after dinner I saw my chance, and took it. It came in the form of the fat dog, which, having slept peacefully under its mistress' chair all through the meal, had the inspiration, on passing the open door as we left the table, to chase a cat in the hotel garden, where the dusk was fast deepening into night. There were immediate cries of woe from the stout lady, who felt sure that Fido would "run into the sea by mistake," despite the assurances of her chere Cecile that he was quite capable of taking care of himself.

Thereupon I darted out, seized the unwary Fido, and had the felicity of being thanked in the most charming broken English by the lovely unknown when I restored him to his mistress.

Well, the ice once broken, we soon made ourselves better acquainted, and I had an ideal time for nearly a week.

Dumas' great story is given a great setting in these two films. They have caught the spirit of the story, reproducing it almost as the average person has imagined it. The settings, the costumes and the action are all just what the imagination naturally pictures them. Hence the films cannot be anything else but successful. The four friends, Athos, Porthos, Aramis and d'Artagnan, are there, and their action is in harmony with what one may expect. Also, those who have never read the story cannot fail to be interested in the films. It is filled with action, as befits the tale. Further, those portions have been retained which carry the audience forward and introduce them to the principal features in the chain of sensational events which the novel describes.

I have booked The Three Musketeers for two nights—Tonight and Tomorrow Night—Wednesday and Thursday. Mon't miss seeing these great pictures on one of these evenings. The admission remains 5c.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 19.—With Carl Schorman, a prominent brewer dead, physicians stated that two more of the 11 persons poisoned by eating toaststools for mushrooms can not live. Mrs. Emma Schorman and her son Henry are in the Grace hospital suffering from the deadly poison, and attending physicians hold out little hope for their recovery.

The Working Woman

IN THE COUNTRY-AT-LARGE about one-third of the single women between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five are engaged in occupations outside their homes, and in the cities about 50 per cent., so that nearly half of all the young women of the country are at work.

Between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-five about one-fifth of the number are so engaged. To the credit of this army of young women who leave home every morning to work downtown it should be remembered that their work downtown is not all they do. Unlike their brothers, they do not sit down to a meal that is prepared for them, and then eat and run. Unlike their brothers, they do not add to the family laundry and housework without any thought of also adding their help. The girl who works downtown also works at home. She sews at night when her brother rests and helps with breakfast before he is out of bed in the morning. She helps with the laundry work before and after her office hours, and if she has an occasional Sunday for an outing it means that she was up before daylight and did several hours' work before she felt free to take it.

It is the double life that thousands of good working girls lead; a double life for which they do not receive full credit.

Women are now engaged in all but two of the 303 gainful occupations of the men in this country, and have reached that height of independence within the past sixty-four years, and every woman who sets type, or keeps books, or is a doctor, a dentist, or a lawyer, or a more humble salesgirl, is leading the double life of the humblest working girl; she is working for wages outside her home and holding up her end of her duties at home.

If among the millions of men in the world one gets breakfast, or holds the baby at night while his wife gets dinner, the world wears out its gloves in applause. But it takes as a matter of course the girl who stands on her feet in a store six days in the week and helps with the housework on Sunday.

The women are doing something no man can do, for if any man ever worked around home he didn't keep it up a moment longer than it required to start public applause.

With all this independence, they are not making a sacrifice of their homes, and if there is a man who isn't better cared for now that his daughters, and sometimes his wife, work for money, where can he be found? He is better groomed and better fed than he was sixty-four years ago, when the male prophets predicted that if a woman engaged in a gainful occupation it would mean the wreckage of that woman's home.

Some of these male prophets are in control today. As their ancestors fought the employment of women in gainful occupations, so are they fighting the desire of the women for the ballot. They belong to the yesterday of their near-sighted forefathers and can't see that if a woman can earn her living and keep her house at the same time, which millions are doing, she can stop on her way to work to cast her ballot without imperilling the sacredness of her home, a sacredness which men treat lightly themselves, and regard with reverence only when they can use it as a club on some woman.

Pork Roast

A pretty way to serve pork is to place the roast on a platter, garnish with lettuce, then as many apples as needed, with cores removed. Take two cupfuls of granulated sugar and one cup of water, and when it has formed a thick sirup drop the apples in and let them cook until soft, but not until they lose their shape. The red apples are better for this purpose, as the red-skin has a prettier appearance in the sirup. Place the whole apples around the edge of the platter and fill the centers with the sirup and serve an apple with each slice of pork.

SHORT ON CURRENCY.

"Did she marry the man who rescued her?"
"Yes, and now she's discovered that her life was the only thing he ever saved."

The Manicure Lady

"WHEN I WAS ABROAD," said the Manicure Lady with a lofty air that she had never displayed in the old days, "when I was abroad I seen nearly all of Normandy. I was mentioning it the other day to a young author named Lyon that came in to have his nails did, and he asked me if I knew what was one of the greatest things about Normandy. I told him I thought it must be because the Normans came from there, and them big horses they use on the beer wagons. He smiled at me and showed me up a little, I guess. He said that I was quite wrong that the greatest thing Normandy ever did was to produce some story writer. I can't remember his name, but I think it was something like De Mopasaw. Did you ever read any of his works, George?"

"I think I heard of him once," said the Head Barber, cautiously. "I think he used to write some for one of them weekly magazines that the solicitors is all the time selling or trying to sell from door to door. Anyhow, one of them was up to the house the other night and he told me and the Missus that if we subscribed for this weekly we could get the work of one of their writers, and the name sounded like De Mopasaw."

"Bless your heart, George!" exclaimed the Manicure Lady pityingly. "You don't understand. The man I mean was a French writer, and I don't think that he was ever in this country. If he was, it's a cinch that he wasn't doing no work for any weekly magazine. This young fellow Lyon that came in told me that De Mopasaw was the greatest short story writer that ever lived. He said that the man wrote so much that he lost his mind after a while and began to write long novels. Then he told me that the poor fellow finally got absolutely dippy and thought all the time that his room was full of black butterflies. It must be terrible to see a great mind like that go, George. I suppose it is the mental strain that comes from thinking about so many plots. I notice Brother Wilfred is acting kind of funny of late, and I was wondering if it might be something like the De Mopasaw case. You see, the poor boy has been working so hard on that new blank verse tragedy of his that he don't get enough sleep."

"It wouldn't be so hard for him if the old gent kept regular hours but he has to sleep in the alcove next to father and when Wilfred has got through his night's work on his blank verse, usually about 4 in the morning, the old gent comes home and sings 'Alexander's Ragtime Band' until some of the neighbors is thoughtful enough to ask him to shut up. That breaks brother's sleep altogether, and lately he has been picking at his clothes."

FOLEY'S KIDNEY REMEDY (Liquid)

Is a great medicine of proven value for both acute and chronic kidney and bladder ailments and for annoying urinary irregularities. It is especially recommended to elderly people for its wonderful tonic and reconstructive qualities, and the permanent relief and comfort it gives them. L. McConnell, 117 Catherine St., Elmira, N. Y., says: "Five bottles did the work for me most effectively and beyond doubt Foley's Kidney Remedy is the most reliable kidney medicine ever made." Blackmer & Tanquary.

kind of my line, as if he was a somebody was going to notice it. Do you suppose he has been seeing some of them black butterflies?"

"I don't think so," replied the candid Head Barber. "If a man has to be a great writer before he goes dippy and sees black butterflies it's a cinch that your brother won't ever see any. He might see a little ant once in a while, or a moth, but that would about let him out. What is this wonderful blank verse tragedy that he is writing? Is he going to stage it right away?"

"It is called 'Babylon,'" answered the Manicure Lady. "It tells all about them hanging gardens, and it has got some swell lines in it. Listen to this—it was so good that I memorized it:

"The gardens hang, and ever hang above the moon
Above the cruel, crested citadel
Grim-visaged guards pace ruthlessly about,
While countless watchdogs bark in Babylon."

"Grand!" said the Head Barber. "What if Frohman shouldn't take it?"

2nd Grand Prize

$265 Link & Son Piano

This piano, also made by the Schaff Bros., of Chicago, Ill., and Huntington, Ind., has no equal on the market for the price. They were the first firm to make upright pianos in Chicago after the great fire of 1837, and a steady improvement has marked the quality of their product ever since.

This piano was purchased from J. A. Smalley and is on exhibition at the storeroom next to the DeWees photograph gallery. The many excellent features of this instrument, combining a double veneered mahogany case, light, perfectly balanced and sympathetic action and soft mellow tone make it one that anyone who is a lover of music would be proud to own.
